Building 109 is a rectangular one-story concrete-block building with a rectangular one-story shed-roof wing to the east and a small one-story shed-roof ell to the west. The shed roofs of the main block join at different heights allowing for a row of fixed clerestory windows on the north side. The recessed main entrance has a metal single door flanked by two glass windows. Wood single doors to east and west provide access to the locker rooms. Decorative elements include carved raftertails supporting the overhanging eaves on the north side.
